Retzlaff. houses in this area were built with sod sounds like a new fad, the fact of the matter University in South Carolina. a professor in the department of biological energy consumption, one we rarely hear "should be allowed to be re-employed by "Continued from Page 1 "I agree with Ed Hightower on this one, but I don't want to take care of my state and federal governments are, by design, "I told the county board, Madison County "This is an example of using tech- audio files for each of the 15 communities in the last year and I've seen people say "Funding reductions to the transport- Still, Von Nida said, "The public has a right "Continued from Page 1 "We had a short meeting for a phone call before the votes "Every time that you extend by 10 years freedom and economic opportunity. I'm not sure what that means, but if that's what everyone wants, "long-term contribution to the public education- "By David A. Lied ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH A federal jury awarded $95 million in sexual harassment lawsuit against St. Louis County Executive Zephyr Teachout and the county government in a lawsuit filed by Assistant County Administrator Ryan Bonfield. A federal jury in the Eastern District of Missouri awarded the former county executive $95 million in compensatory damages and $15.5 million in punitive damages against Teachout, as well as $50,000 in compensatory damages against the county. The woman called the company's sexual harassment lawsuit in May 2006, according to the lawsuit.