In these times, there are many arguments for and against the federal government. Should it be large or small? Should more power rest with state and local governments? It is inevitable and upon the receiving of one's vote that the population does not really make the decisions that affect their lives — at all levels — as no politicians but pub-also realized the fact that many of these individuals are actually just citizens that are of a different group. A local educator who teaches these professionals is T.R. Carr. Born in Miller, Ark., he received his bachelor’s degree from Little Rock, Carr received his bach-sions is T.R. Carr. Born in Miller, Ark., he received his bach-in the public sector because of fear of getting

T.R. Carr, a former mayor, teaches one of his classes at SIUE about serving as public administrators.

On Friday, July 15, 2011 — www.theintelligencer.com

Local educator T.R. Carr, a former mayor, teaches one of his classes at SIUE about serving as public administrators.

T.R. Carr, a former mayor, teaches one of his classes at SIUE about serving as public administrators.