"If they want to have a relationship like teacher-student, not just a guest. They treat me like their kid. It's really nice."

"For example, the cafeteria at school. I don't really like all the fast food. It's like sandwiches and pasta. But we can choose what we want to do."

"It's sort of hard to explain the dynamic because to me the culture is the people. We can talk to them and say what we think where now I'm very interested to see how the different cultures coexist here," Klaudija said."

"I know I'm just changed a lot."
